

Americans Now Fighting On Marne

U-boats Have Not Bagged Any More Victims

Washington, June 4.—No new reports of sinking or attacks by the German U-boats off the American coast had reached the naval department up to mid-forenoon today, Secretary of the Navy Daniels stated.

He also said there is no information concerning the reported capture of one of the raiders.

The department does not intend at this time, however, to make any official announcement if a U-boat is captured or sunk lest it prove of military advantage to the enemy.

Lewes, Del., June 4.—Firing continued all this morning off Cape Henlopen in what is believed to be a battle between the U-boat that sank the Tanker Herbert L. Pratt and U. S. naval scout vessels, it was officially stated here at noon. Earlier reports today from Delaware Breakwater stated that a fight seven miles off shore began at 6 o'clock last night—several hours after the Pratt had been sunk and continued until day break.

Rescued passengers of the New York and Porto Rico liner Carolina are closeted with government officials who steadfastly refuse to permit newspaper men or friends to see the survivors. An official statement may be given out late this afternoon.

New York, June 4.—Positive confirmation of loss of the liner Carolina, destroyed by a German submarine off the Jersey coast, came today when nineteen survivors were picked up. This leaves about 311 of her passengers and crew unaccounted for. The City of Columbus for which fears were felt, is safe at Vineyard Haven, Mass.

The boatload of 19 survivors from the Carolina, including two women was picked up this morning by the British steamer Appleby. They were taken to Lewes, Del. Another lifeboat—empty—was found floating near the place where the ship sank.

The City of Columbus brought in the crew of the schooner Jacob M. Haskell.

There were no new reports of submarine attacks up to 11:30 today and no more signs of U-boats on the coast had been reported.

Washington, June 4.—Germany has failed to gain any military advantage from her spectacular U-boat raids off the American coast.

If she intended to terrorize the American mind she has failed likewise to accomplish that.

These two facts stood out in bold relief today in the wake of the startling news that Teuton U-boats had been operating since May 25 off our coast bagging probably 12 or more vessels of various types, but missing any cargo or troop transports.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels was authority for the flat statement that American naval strength abroad would not be diverted to home waters because of the foray. Germany, he suggested, wanted strongly to dent the American line-up abroad so she could perhaps undertake important naval action over there.

Every available scouting vessel was on the hunt today for the raiders, variously reported numbering from 2 to 5. All up and down the coast, naval commanders acted under their own authorities, supplemented by special navy department orders, had out destroyers, U-boat chasers and airplanes.

The fact that operations had been carried on since May 25, came as a distinct shock to the National Capital. It was proven however, from the fact that the derelict Edna, recently towed into Lewes, Del., and the Hattie Dunn were both attacked on that date. The capture of those aboard, followed by their release only added to the sensation in this remarkable raid. This apparently was all a part of the German plan of striking fear to the heart of civilians and ship folk.

Persistent rumors of U-boat activity off the coast have been checked up but the navy each time said their re-

SAVING 'EM FOR TROOP SHIPS.
New York, June 4.—"I won't waste a torpedo on anything less than a troop ship. Torpedoes are too expensive."
This was the declaration of the commander of one submarine to Captain Gilmore, of the Schooner Edna, who was held prisoner aboard a submarine for a week.

BULLETINS

Boston, June 4.—The Savannah liner City of Columbus, which was reported sunk by a submarine arrived safely today at Vineyard Haven.

New York, June 4.—Nineteen survivors of the Steamer Carolina were landed at Lewis, Del., this morning by the British steamer Appleby, which picked them up at sea. The survivors were sixteen men, two women and one member of the crew.

New York, June 4.—The port of New York has been re-opened, it was announced at headquarters of the Third Naval District today.

New York, June 4.—A hospital ship was anchored off quarantine today with a fleet of smaller craft nearby ready to dash out if patrolling airplanes reported drifting lifeboats. The United States coast guard kept in constant communication with the patrol flotilla.

New York, June 4.—It was persistently reported here today that one of the German submarine fleet had been captured and taken to Stapleton, Staten Island, while its crew was taken prisoner to Brooklyn Navy Yard. There was no official confirmation at either place. According to the report the U-boat was caught near Boston yesterday and towed here. The prisoners were said to have been brought into the harbor on a patrol boat, when held up by a warship signally it had prisoners aboard.

New York, June 4.—One of the life boats of the missing steamer California, which is believed destroyed by a submarine, has been picked up, it was reported here today. The boat was empty.

An Atlantic Port, June 4.—Battered and crippled by submarine shellfire, an American tank steamer arrived here today. She was towed into port by navy tugs. The tanker had become almost waterlogged as a result of pounding she received from the blockading U-boat.

Boston, June 4.—The Merchants and Miners liner Crecean came into Vineyard Haven today, carrying survivors of the schooner Jacob Haskell.

The Haskell survivors are on the Grecian, not the City of Columbus, as previously reported. The Columbus is safe, but carries no survivors of other victims.

Washington, June 4.—"The navy department is doing everything possible to cope with the U-boat raiders," said Senator Swanson, Virginia, acting chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, today. Swanson and Senator Lodge, ranking Republican member of the committee, visited Secretary Daniels to learn what steps were being taken to capture or drive off the submarines.

London, June 4.—The American hospital ship Comfort will be used between the United States and American naval base abroad, without convoy, it was announced here today. Germany will be notified each time the ship makes a trip.

IDLERS SHOULD ALL BE REPORTED TO DRAFT BOARD

Washington, June 4.—Rules for the enforcement of "Protest Marshal General Crowder's work-or-fight" regulations, announced yesterday, call on all citizens to report to the nearest local draft board names of men with- in the draft age who are habitually idle or who are employed non-productively.

Each local board is created into what will be practically a court to sit probably weekly, to decide such cases as may be brought before it. Upon a case being presented the board will serve a notice on the registrant of not less than three days nor more than seven days, directing him to present such evidence as he may care to submit.

NEW COMMANDER AT CAMP SHERMAN, OHIO

Camp Sherman, O., June 4.—Major General Harry C. Hale, of the 84th division, will take command of Camp Sherman this afternoon, it was announced at Headquarters, this morning.

President Wilson as he looks today.

The remarkable manner in which President Wilson retains his health and "pep" under the constant strain of the war is the topic of conversation whenever public officials gather and whenever the president appears in public. This photo of him, the latest one, shows that the lines of care and worry on his face are no deeper now than they were a few months after the break with Germany. His close associates attribute this to the fact that he has developed a way of throwing off his burdens an hour or two each day for a walk, a spin into the country, a game of golf or just a short visit with friends and Mrs. Wilson.

AMERICAN CREWS CARRIED ON BOARD U-BOAT FOR OVER WEEK

New York, June 4.—After having been captured by a German submarine detained aboard her from May 25 to June 2, while she attacked shipping on the American coast and finally turned loose in small boats with bread and water for sustenance, twenty-three American seamen are safe in New York City today. These men comprise the crew of the schooners Edna, Hattie Dunn and Captain Gilmore of the Edna.

Their vessels were destroyed May 25 near this coast by a big U-boat, the commander of which was invariably suave and studiously polite to the Americans. In each instance the submarine sneaked up on the schooner, displayed the "Stop immediately" signal, then placed bombs aboard and took the Americans into the submarine. Captain Hoolbrook the first captured was detained below decks until the Edna had been destroyed. Later they were allowed to go on deck and smoke. The commander who spoke perfect English and wore the German naval uniform, appeared highly pleased with himself at all times.

On May 27 dinner was served the prisoners while they were on the bottom, under 28 fathoms. It took forty-five seconds to submerge to that depth.

The commander informed the prisoners that he had enough provisions and supplies for a month's cruising on the American coast and intended he intended to spend the period attacking American shipping.

There was a wireless on the submarine and at times long conversations were held with other vessels or a land sending station, the American prisoners were not certain which, but they said the wireless made so much noise it kept them awake at nights. It was also used to pick up news sent by wireless from the United States. In this way the Germans learned of the offensive in France and of the blowing up of a torpedo works in Austria. It was hinted the submarine might have been in communication with a secret base of operations on the American coast. Most of the time was spent on the surface but the U-boat quickly submerged whenever American or British warships were sighted. The Germans ate canned food and were evidently much pleased with the work they were doing on this coast. They also were fond of arguing about the war and demanded to know why America entered it.

When conditions aboard became too crowded the boats of the Winneconne—sunk—were taken and the prisoners put aboard them and turned adrift.

Winneconne, 1,869 tons, freight steamer, owned by the American Trans-Atlantic Steamship company of New York. Carried crew of 28. Sunk off Cape May, N. J., May 26.

United States Troops Now In Thick Of Fight

Paris, June 4.—American troops have struck their first blow in the new battle on the Marne. Fighting side-by-side, with the French, they hurled back a German force which reached the southern bank of the river—the first time the Marne has been crossed by the enemy since early in the war. An American force also stopped the German advance before Neuillywood, hurling the Huns back by a magnificent counter-attack.

"An American force stopped the Germans attempting to reach Neuillywood," the communique said. "By a magnificent counter-attack, they hurled the Germans back north of the wood. (Neuillywood is on the south bank of the Ourcq river, just west of the village of Neuilly-St-Front and seven miles west and north of Chateau Thierry).

"Further south, the Germans realized no gain on the Marne front. One German battalion which reached the left bank near Jaulgonne, was hurled back by a Franco-American counter-attack, with heavy losses. The bridge was destroyed and a hundred prisoners taken.

The Germans were held without progress by the French between the Oise and the Aisne.

"Between the Aisne and the Ourcq the battle was going on with great violence yesterday evening and last night.

"Violent attacks were made in the region of Pernant, Saconin-Et-Breuil, Missy-Aux-Bois and Troesnes. Pernant was taken by the Germans at the cost of heavy losses to the assailants. "Further south the French withdrew a little to the west of Saconin and Missy-Aux-Bois. Raverolles and Troesnes were held by the French.

"In the heavy fighting south of Ourcq, the Germans with the help of heavy artillery concentrations, carried Mosloy, Neuilly-La-Porterie, Torcy and Boursches. The French, by a counter-attack, retook Mosloy and Neuilly-La-Porterie. In violent fighting these villages were taken and retained."

FIVE MEN KILLED WHEN ENGINE HITS A TROOP TRAIN

Cleveland, June 4.—Five men were killed and three injured when an engine collided with a troop train on the Erie Railroad between Sterling and Rittman, Ohio, early today. No soldiers were in the train.

HUNS HAVE NERVE IN MAKING CLAIMS

Amsterdam, June 4.—German newspaper correspondents claim that 175,000 allied prisoners, two thousand cannon and "innumerable" machine guns have been captured since the start of the present offensive on March 21.

GERMANS CELEBRATE BECAUSE OF RAID AND ARE ARRESTED

New York, June 4.—About the only persons in New York who were excited about the submarines, are sixty-four Germans, and they're in jail. The city took the news with summer ennui. Crowds watched the bulletin boards, but there was little nervousness. Talk of possible airplane raids predominated. Coney Island blazed with light as usual last night and Island boats sailed boldly out of the Narrows until naval authorities swung the submarine net across.

U. S. Marshals arrested 64 persons who were holding high-fests in celebration. They probably will be interned. Crowds assembled around automobiles containing the enemy aliens, shouting, and at one point school children sang patriotic songs as the Germans started for prison.

MEN ARE HURT WHEN FORD IS OVERTURNED

When the Ford touring car in which he was riding with two Springfield men, overturned on the Columbus pike near the Jesse Townsley farm above Cedarville, Monday afternoon, Ed. Stuckey of C. M. Stuckey & Son of Cedarville, received a severely sprained back. He is confined to bed by his injuries.

Mr. Stuckey was with two men from the American Seeding Machine Co., of Springfield, and they were going to the Townsley farm on business. The driver was unfamiliar with the pike, and having his gaze turned into a field on the farm, did not notice a turn in the road. The machine turned a partial somersault and struck a telephone pole, which it broke off. All three men were slightly injured, but the machine was not badly damaged. Dr. M. I. Marsh dressed the injuries of the men.

OVER 400 ARE MISSING AS A RESULT OF RAIDS

New York, June 4.—Germany's submarine raid on shipping off the American coast has destroyed probably twelve vessels, including two liners, and more than 450 persons are missing, according to the best information early today. There is a report that one of the U-boats captured near Boston, has been brought into New York Harbor and its crew taken to Brooklyn.

Three big liners, due at Atlantic Ports today, were late in arriving and a close watch for them is being kept. A hospital ship was anchored in the bay here, ready for service.

That the commanders of the submarines intend using frightfulness on any Briton's caught off the coast was indicated when the under-officer of one under-sea pirate, boarding the Winneconne, demanded to know if there were any Englishmen aboard, threatening to kill them.

WOUNDED AMERICAN BOY TO SPEAK IN XENIA ON SATURDAY

Corporal Morris, wounded American boy, just returned from France, will speak in front of the Court House, Saturday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, in the interests of the Greene County War Savings Stamp Campaign, according to advisers just received by Chairman M. J. Hartley, from the State Campaign Headquarters.

Corporal Morris has a thrilling story to tell of the great world war, and is one of the first Americans to return wounded to this country and to tell his tale before an American audience. His address is virile and intensely interesting and everyone in the county should make it a point not to miss it.

The meeting will be the biggest out-door meeting of the season and it is expected that hundreds will take advantage of this opportunity of hearing the American soldier's story of the war.

WILBERFORCE HEARS JOHN R. SHILLADY

Jorn R. Shillady of New York, Secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, spoke to a large number of students and citizens of Wilberforce and Wilberforce University in Galloway hall of the university Monday afternoon. Mr. Shillady is an able speaker, was introduced by Col. Charles Young. He spoke of the advancement of colored people and referred bitterly to the lynching of colored people in the south which he heavily scored. He said that steps should be taken by state governments to prevent lynchings, saying that it was a crime against the universal democracy which the United States claims as hers, to permit these lynchings to go on.

The Horrors of Essen Revealed

By KARL KLUMPKKE.

(A German Machinist Who Deserted from the Krupp's Works, and Escaped to Zurich, Switzerland, from Which Place He Sends Out His Sensational Revelations of the Horrors of the town of Essen.)

Before the guards could seize the prisoner he was kneeling upon the body of the Prussian officer, his hands round his throat, choking the very life out of him. Then the guards made to pull him off, the Bulgar pulled at the officer, and then smashed his head against the stone sets of the yard breaking the officer's skull. Then he turned to face the men who vainly tried to secure him, kicking and biting like a savage beast. Soon the struggle was over. Although possessed of the strength of a dozen men in his madness, Keplenki was overpowered and dragged back to the whipping post.

Once again he broke away, but only for a second. Loudly he laughed at his tormentors, calling down curses upon them. With his hands in iron behind his back, his feet securely lashed with cords, he was placed with his back against the post and tied, walked boldly towards him. For a few moments he stood staring at the Hungarian screaming in his delirium, and then, drawing his revolver, he took deliberate aim and shot him through the head.

The sudden madness of the Hungarian attended as it was by tragic results, caused something akin to consternation amongst the guards who were in charge of the assembled prisoners and workers. The prisoners were hurried away from the scene and marched back to the cells.

After something like an hour had elapsed I was marched along with several others to the shop where, as far as I knew, I was to spend seven years.

Faint at Work.

After I had been in the shop three weeks or so, doing various jobs to my surprise I found a fellow Bavarian working along side me. He was one of the men who had come with me to Krupp's, and not unnaturally I was delighted to find him again. Happily he was not like myself a prisoner, but a so-called "free-agent." That is, he lived outside the works, and after hours was free to do much as he pleased.

We worked side by side for several days, during which time I was able to tell him at various intervals my full story, and then, to my horror, the man disappeared from the shop. I dared not inquire what had happened of him, and for weeks I lived in suspense, all the while plotting and planning a means of escape.

One day I fell beside my lathe in a dead faint. When I recovered consciousness I found myself lying in bed in the prison hospital, a poorly furnished institution, but nevertheless, in so far as comfort was concerned, a paradise when compared with the cells.

Free at Last!

After I had been walking about the ward for a few days I had one of the greatest surprises of my life. It was on a bright, sunny morning in October that the commander of the prison, accompanied by Madame Warburg the spy-woman, and the doctor, came into the ward.

They walked directly up to me, and the spy-woman spoke to me.

"Karl Klumpke," she said, "you have been an unutterable fool. You have had a great opportunity at Essen, and you have wilfully thrown it away. You should count yourself the most lucky man alive today. Another opportunity is offered you. The Herr Governor here will hear me out in the offer I have to make to you. Will you tell me now what you know of the associates of the man Kaplenki? Your reward shall be great."

"Madame," I said, "on my honor, I can tell you nothing, for I know nothing that is not already known to you. I am innocent of the crime for which I am being punished."

For close upon an hour the woman plied me with questions, many of them the same as had been put to me by Krupp agents and herself on previous occasions. At last she appeared satisfied with my answers, for, turning from me, she spoke to the Herr Governor. Together the two consulted a while and then the Herr Governor addressed me.

"Munchener," he said, "you have been convicted of a serious offense, but in view of your good work and services you have rendered the Fatherland in the earlier days you are to be pardoned."

Before I could speak a word they turned to leave me. Madame Warburg saying: "Count yourself a thousand times lucky and take warning."

I was ordered from my bed early next morning, and given a suit of my own clothing to put on. Then, having eaten the food, which was brought me, I was taken from ward and marched into the Herr Governor's office.

Home Again.

The Herr Governor had very little to say to me, beyond again warning me, and handed me a formidable looking garment, which upon examination, proved to be my "fardion."

The Herr Commandant told me that I was again a "free agent" and that I could work at the Krupp's and outside the working hours could live anywhere I chose. I offered that I be permitted to visit Munchen and rest a while and then return to my work. I informed the Herr Governor that I was very weak and could not resume work immediately. Upon this the Herr Governor became angry and told me that I should consider myself fortunate that I was not shot for the serious offense I had committed against the safety of the Fatherland. He then told me that I better resume work and after a few months, perhaps, I would be permitted a short "leave" to return to Munchen.

So back to the works I returned. Meanwhile my fellow-Bavarian whom I have already mentioned, had made a visit to Munchen and informed many Bavarian officials as to the brutal treatment that was handed to me at the Krupp's. The Munchen authorities had, thereupon, started an investigation and Berlin had received many threatening communications from Munich.

However, not knowing that the Bavarian authorities had concerned themselves seriously about me, one day I went to the office of the Herr Governor and asked him for a "leave" which he granted grudgingly, but not until he had put me under oath that I would return to the works on the expiration of my three weeks' vacation. But that oath was given by me under force and I did not feel duty bound to keep it; I took the oath with the intention to break it at the first opportune moment. So when I reached Munchen I spread my story broadcast and it was not long before I made friends and found ways and means that made my escape from the Fatherland possible. Twenty Years Ago Today

Mrs. Charles Kyle and two little daughters went to Oxford today to spend a week with relatives and attend commencement of the college.

Mr. Jordan Robb's beautiful new two-story residence on East Market street, next to the A. M. E. parsonage and opposite Prof. Scott's is enclosed, and being pushed toward completion.

The drilling for gas or oil at Waynesville continues with about the same amount of gas as was two weeks ago. It is said that the indications for oil are increasing and it is upon this the stockholders are banking, so to speak. The well is now to the depth of a thousand feet and with no accident Trenton rock will be reached this week.

The burglar was about a night or two ago and paid a visit to the home of County Surveyor McKay. He made several efforts to effect an entrance into a window but was frightened away before he was successful.

City Clerk Logan had quite a little tumble yesterday. He was on a ladder seeing about some repairs being made on the roof of his house, when a rung of the ladder broke. His legs went through and he fell backwards to the ground. Some severe bruises were the only result but the fall might have been quite serious.

The commencement of the Xenia High school, central building, will be held Tuesday afternoon, at the opera house. Owing to the change in the length of the course the number of graduates this year has been greatly reduced and consists of but five members.

There was an explosion in one of the wheel mills at Goes Station early this morning. There was no one injured and the damage was slight. The mill has been engaged in making rifle powder.

FOOD NOTES

Supplied by Greene County Food Commission

To Managers of all Public Eating Places.

Military necessity again demands that we save meats.

At this season of the year when fresh vegetables and fruits are coming into the market; when every day they are getting cheaper, there should be no excuse for anybody to eat a large quantity of meat.

In ordinary times the person who eats meat more than once a day risks his health. The hot season demands the consumption of more vegetables and fruits. Use more milk. Salads should be eaten. Offer more vegetables in greater quantity and at the very lowest possible prices.

Poultry has now become scarce. It must be conserved. Fish are plentiful and at least one variety of fish will be cheap in the city markets every day.

In these times when half of Europe is on the verge of starvation; when upwards of 5,000,000 men, women and children have yielded their lives to hunger, and when the vitality of almost 20,000 more have been weakened to the extent that makes many of them practically useless as wage earners, present or future, the American who eats more meat than is necessary is unpatriotic.

We ask your hearty co-operation in this matter.

Very truly yours,

FRED C. CROXTON.

JAPAN TO BACK UP CHINA.

The situation of the Far East has taken an important change as the result of an agreement between Japan and China under which Japan is to furnish officers, supplies and cash to organize the Chinese forces for action in Mongolia and Manchuria. Russia had long been encroaching in these border provinces of China, and since the Bolsheviks have been in control in Russia there has been a reign of terror there.

Gen. Semenov, the Cossack leader of the anti-Bolshevik elements in the Far East, has been gaining ground lately. Some observers believe there is a good chance that the Bolsheviks will be overthrown and that a new government, founded on moderate lines, may be set up in Russia. No doubt this Japanese-Chinese alliance has such an outcome in view. That alliance is not aimed at the Bolsheviks but at the German propaganda, which is seeking to mortgage the whole of Siberia as well as European Russia, and extend the Teuton sphere clear through to the Pacific. Japan is not willing to sit idly by and see the Huns carry their conquest to her doors.

THE WAR CRISIS IS ON.

Lately there has been some talk to the effect that this country will have five million men in the field before the war is over. "Why limit it to five millions?" asked President Wilson in the course of his address in New York, opening the Red Cross campaign. He added that he had not suggested any limit to Congress, but that every ship would be sent over there laden with men and supplies in any volume that may be necessary to win the war.

The President made it clearer than ever before that this country has embarked on this work, not to take advantage for itself, but to help the whole world. "I could not be proud," he said, "to fight for a selfish purpose, but I can be proud to fight for mankind."

The President opened his great mercy fund drive for a hundred million dollars for the noble Red Cross; and now they say when it closes, the figures will show about seventy millions over-subscribed. Does not that stiffen your backbone—to think that about forty-seven million Americans—nearly half the total population of the country, contributed to this great cause for humanitarian relief for suffering? Not only did every Red Cross division in the country over-subscribe, but five or six doubled their quotas. It came from every part of the United States, from its cities, its towns, its farms, its factories, from the rich and poor, regardless of sect or creed—the greatest work of mercy, pity and love in the history of mankind.

Compare the motives which animated the hearts of those who have contributed in this great cause with the words of the German Chancellor Von Hertling in an interview in Az Est, the leading newspaper in Budapest, Hungary, where he says: "The united Teuton empires are broadening and deepening the work done by Bismarck, in the way of beating down enemies and bringing their WEAKER neighbors under the Teuton yoke. In the future these great German empires will be protected against the assaults of such neighbors as Serbia, Montenegro and Rumania AS THE CATS HAVE TO BE PROTECTED FROM THE MICE."

From this we gain some conception of what the Huns would impose on us if they won the war. We can imagine with what gusto they would levy war tributes and indemnities on us and dictate our future policies so that this country with all its resources would become tributary to them—and how they would make it appear that they were the injured parties and we the offenders. It is plain to see that there is no reasoning with such maniacs and that the only way to deal with them at all is to subdue them utterly and not let them have a word to say about the peace terms. When they are made normal and rational again we will reason with them.

One paragraph in Ambassador Gerard's book should bore itself deep into every mind. It is the chapter where Mr. Gerard tells of his interview with the Kaiser. It was a careworn, nervous, vindictive man whom Mr. Gerard talked with. "He showed great bitterness against the United States," Mr. Gerard reports, "and repeatedly said: 'America had better look out after this war,' and, 'I shall stand no nonsense from America after the war.'"

And the Kaiser has not waited until after the war to commence his retaliation on us. Already his U-boats are over here sinking American ships. This is the latest and most startling war news—news that will arouse the fighting blood of America as it has not been aroused before in a hundred years.

DON'T WORRY YOUNG MARINE WRITES

"Don't worry about me, I am getting along fine," says John C. Wright, with the U. S. Marines in France, in a letter to his parents, Deputy and Mrs. S. C. Wright, written from the trenches. He says in part:

April 30, 1918.
Dear Folks at Home:
Well, I suppose by this time you have received my letters and know that I am all O. K. I have been transferred to the 47th Co., 5th Reg., and am seeing service in the trenches. It is not such a bad life. We have a fairly good place to stay and real good cats. The weather has been very bad and of course it is pretty muddy.

I judge you are busy as usual this spring, Irene finishing college and the other school activities. I would like to send Sis something, but I haven't had a chance to buy anything yet.

Has Harry gone into the service yet? In the last letter I had from him he said he would probably go after college closed.

I would like to have some home papers. I have not received any mail since arriving in France, but am expecting some every day. How is everybody in the "old town?" I suppose it has not changed very much, but it seems a long time since I walked old Bridge avenue.

I must close for this time, hoping that you are well as I am, and don't worry about me, for I am getting along fine. Tell all my friends to write.

My new address is Pri. John C. Wright, 47th Co., 5th Reg., U. S. Marine Corps, American Exp. Force, France.

Your loving son, John.

BOOZE BOTTLES UNCOVERED IN HOUSE STIRS CONGRESSMEN

"Pest" and also "S'Death!"
A dark mystery is being uncovered in the shadows of the Capitol building in the "dry" capital of the United States.

A huge picture of a keg and twenty-six empty whiskey bottles graces the front page of the Sunday evening issue of the Washington Times. The evidences of "licker" were collected from a lavatory on the fourth floor of the House office building, a marble structure in the very shadow of the National Capitol.

Doubtless "prohibition" congressmen are shaking in their boots as the result of the Times exploration and discoveries. It is said by janitors in the building that an average of 165 bottles a month are collected and thrown out. They are carried away every morning. Shortly after the pictures of the twenty-six bottles were taken three more were added to it, taken from the same lavatory.

The presence of the supply of evidence that the house members were not all "on the wagon" and the fact that a picture of the empty booze bottles was taken, caused a stir in the House. Speaker Clark, who is head of the commission in charge of the House office building and the House end of the Capitol building said he did not believe members of congress were drinking.

Other congressmen, including Hon. S. D. Fess of this district, are thoroughly stirred up over the discovery. Congressman Fess saw the bottles but did not pay any attention to them until he saw the picture taken by The Times.

He said: "I saw a barrel with bottles in the lavatory of the fourth floor of the office building yesterday. It did not enter my mind that the bottles had contained liquor, and I thought nothing more of the matter. I hope the facts are exposed and that The Times will make it as hot as possible. I think the presence of whiskey bottles should be investigated by the House, and if the facts are such as to bear out the suspicion that naturally arise, the persons responsible will be made known. More than that, drastic regulation of the building should be imposed and such things made impossible."

Mr. Fess said he believed the "dry" laws should be impartially enforced, as well in the District as elsewhere. I shall support any resolution of a prac-

"There are a lot of members in this building who voted for the dry measure all along they have their regularly" one employee of the building said. "Sometimes they bring it here themselves, but they are generally very keen on getting the bottle out of this office once it has served its purpose."

THEATERS

Bijou.

A thrilling story of the bloody period in France's history is told in the William Fox, seven reel drama "Du Barry" featuring Theda Barry, Charles Clary and others, which comes to the Bijou theater Wednesday and Thursday matinee and night.

The picture gives in true detail the lives of the great French adventurers dealing with the story of how a poor French girl rose from the depths to the top of the social ladder, won a king and finally died on the guillotine. Xenia people have not had an opportunity of seeing Theda Barry for some time and they will like this great emotional actress in her new portrayal.

Orphium.

Virile Monroe Salisbury and his pretty co-star, Ruth Clifford, have the leading roles in the Bluebird feature, "The Door Between," which comes to the Orphium Wednesday night. The picture is Bluebird's master photodrama of the year.

Zanesville, O., June 4.—Hundreds of people walked to work here this morning, following a strike of every street railway employee in the city, which tied up all city service. The men are demanding five cents an hour wage increase and recognition of their union. They were offered an increase of three cents an hour by the Ohio Electric Railway Company, operators of the city line, a week ago. The men refused to accept.

THE WOMAN WHO CHANGED

By JANE PHELPS.

Mrs. Collins Angered. "Naturally not!" she returned with an ill-disguised sneer when I said that she would not be as concerned over George as I was, nor so sensitive to waiting in the crowded station.

"It was kind of you to bring Mr. Howard home, and I do appreciate it. I rang for tea, giving her no time to answer. 'You see the hotel clerk kept me informed, and said he would see that he got up all right when the train came in.' I stretched the truth a little, but as it harmed no one I did not feel guilty. 'I was too nervous to remain where the public could stare at me. Then, too, I knew George would prefer I should not wait there—wouldn't you George?'"

"You did perfectly right dear," he returned just as Celeste brought the tea. I never let the hotel serve tea. It seemed so much more home-like to have Celeste do it.

A dull flush covered Mrs. Collins' face. I saw she was annoyed, angry. It raised my spirits immensely. To think that a little country bred girl could annoy the lovely Julia, shake her poise, was to say the least, encouraging.

She left as soon as she had finished her tea. I thanked her again for her kindness, and expressed the hope that if George ever had another accident she would be where she could bring him to me.

While I was talking I saw that look of satisfaction, of pride, or some thing of the sort cross George's face that he always wore when I had held my own with another woman.

Heart to Heart.

"Oh, George, you are sure you aren't badly hurt?" I said as soon as I closed the door after Mrs. Collins. "Isn't there something I can do for you?"

"Yes, come here and give me a kiss!"

I kissed him fondly, running my fingers through his hair. For once I dared take liberties with him.

"So you were worried?"

"Worried! I was almost wild with anxiety. I went down to the station, but when I saw that crowd, all eaten up with curiosity I couldn't bear to stay. It seemed to me that my feeling for you was too wonderful to let them all gaze at me."

For a moment George looked at me without saying anything. When with left arm he drew me to him (it was his right wrist that was sprained).

"I understand dear! I should probably have felt just the same had you been on the train. When we are very much interested we do not care to take the public into our confidence."

"No, indeed! and you don't think it was because I didn't care enough, do you?"

"No, dear. I understand you better than you think."

For half an hour we talked. The most satisfying talk we ever had together—from my point of view. I told him how I cared for him; how I resented the implication that I did not. And that I wanted to please him in everything. I told him all this without in any way belittling myself. A while back I should have talked very differently, should have begged him to love me, and probably wept a little. As I left him to dress for our tete a tete dinner I said aloud:

"I owe Mrs. Sexton a lot," and I did. It was because of my talk with her that I was able to keep calm and dignified in my heart to heart conversation with George.

Really I had tried very hard to be quiet and undisturbed because of Julia Collins' unwarranted intrusion. That was what I called it. And as Mrs. Sexton had said I should I was reaping my reward. This episode more perhaps than anything else which had happened made me absolutely determined to leave nothing undone that would make me what George wanted me to be.

We laughed and chatted over the dinner. Then when we finished he told me all about the accident. How for a little he had feared he would not be able to get out of the burning car; how brave the men were, even those who were terribly burned. He seemed more human, more concerned for others than ever I had known him to be. He was very lovable in his softened mood.

"Please let me call a doctor," I urged. "You may be more seriously hurt than you think."

"No, and if I had been I should have been repaid by your anxiety for me. It is worth the inconvenience of a sprained wrist to be such an object of interest," he laughed as he said it, and patted my hand; else I might have thought he referred to Julia Collins, and her interest in him.

"I don't want you to suffer, but I too have been very happy," I said, as I bade him good night. He had gone to bed immediately he finished his dinner.

Coughs or colds which persist at this season usually are of an obstinate nature. All the more reason for using a reliable remedy. COMMENCEMENT WEEK AT ANTIOCH TO BE MOST INTERESTING

The commencement week program of Antioch College is particularly attractive this year and many Xenia people are planning to attend the exercises. Thursday evening, June 6, the commencement concert of the music department will be held in the college chapel, beginning at eight o'clock, this being the opening feature of the commencement week program which is to continue until the following Thursday, when the diplomas of the graduating class will be presented following an address by Hon. S. D. Fess.

Friday evening, June 7, the college graduating class will present a class play, "Jack O'Hearts," a comedy in three acts, and will also give a program of music and readings. The play will be given from the stage of the Yellow Springs opera house.

On Saturday evening, beginning at eight o'clock, the anniversary meeting of the Star Literary Society will be held in the college chapel, the address of the evening to be given by Rev. Omer S. Thomas, of Dayton, O. The anniversary programs of the two Antioch Literary Societies are particularly interesting and many Xenia people enjoy the exercises each year.

Monday evening, the anniversary meeting of the Union Literary Society will be held in the college chapel, the address of the evening to be given by John M. Davidson, of Xenia. The majority of Xenia Antiochians were members of the Union in their student days and many still take an active interest in the society.

On Tuesday morning the annual meeting of the board of trustees will be held; in the evening the annual alumni association meeting and reception will take place.

On Wednesday the commencement exercises will take place in Kelly hall; the address to be delivered by Hon. S. D. Fess. His address will be of general interest and a large attendance is expected.

The commencement dinner will be served in the college dining hall at 12:30 o'clock and will be followed by a ball game in the afternoon between the varsity and the Alumni teams.

The program of the week will be concluded in the evening by the president's reception.

ATTEMPT TO BE MADE TO GET FARM LABOR

An effort is going to be made this year to handle the farm labor situation in Greene county.

The County Agricultural Agent office is in touch with the farm labor division of the State City Free Employment Office, at Dayton, where considerable farm labor is listed as available for help.

Paul L. Sharrett, who has charge of the farm labor division of that office asserts that there is a sufficient supply of labor available for general farming, but that the chief difficulty seems to be one of distribution—getting the farmer who needs help in touch with the man who wants work on a farm.

The men listed by this bureau who want a job on the farm are all men who have had more or less farm experience and are not as many people think totally ignorant of farm work.

The County Agent is going to try to place Greene County farmers who need help and are unable to find it locally, in touch with labor through this channel. Labor agents are to be appointed in each township to assist the agent in locating farmers who are short of labor. Farmers who do need help should notify one of these agents or the county agent who will then take the matter up direct with the Dayton office.

Mr. Sharrett, of the Dayton office, will be in Greene county on Thursday, June 6th, and an effort will be made on that date to find out something of Greene county needs in the way of harvest help. Any farmer who expects to need a man through harvest should write or call the County Agent's office Wednesday morning or Thursday.

PRISONER'S "PAL" HELPS HIM TO GET OUT OF THE LOCKUP

A "pal" broke the locks off the jail and cell doors in the Jamestown lock up some time Sunday night, and released Fred Miller, white, held for chicken stealing.

When Marshal Al Zeimer went to the jail Monday morning he found the doors open and the prisoner gone. No trace of him has been secured. Miller, who is thought to have come to this city with a carnival company, was arrested early Saturday morning in Jamestown, and locked up on a charge of chicken stealing. He had sold chickens which he was suspected of stealing, at the Levee grocery. Miller was driving a horse and buggy which he had rented from the Pifer livery barn in this city, and the rig was held for the owners by Jamestown authorities. Miller refused to talk or tell where he lived.

The Jamestown jail is situated in the opera house building, and the doors and locks are strong.

Consoling.

"They are calling for the author," said the stage manager, behind the scenes, when the theater seemed to be in an uproar. "Oh, I can't make a speech," said the blushing author. "Oh, well, just go out front and tell 'em you're sorry for what you've done!"—Yonkers Statesman.

MASSACHUSETTS NURSE

Tells Women How to Get Strong

Greenfield, Mass.—"I am a nurse and the grippe left me in a weak, rundown condition with a cough—my friends asked me to try Vinol. I did so and it has built up my strength so that I am in perfect health at the present time and I am recommending Vinol to others."—Mrs. F. M. Locke.

There is no secret about Vinol. It owes its success in such cases to beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates, the oldest and most famous body building and strength creating tonics. We strongly recommend Vinol. Sayre & Hemphill and druggists everywhere. adv

Xenia Man Spent Fortune In Search

"I spent $1,800 in 7 years treating with physicians, some specialists costing me $10 a visit, only to at last say that nothing could be done for me, that I had cancer or ulcers of the stomach. I suffered awful pains in my stomach, but after taking a few doses of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy these all disappeared and for 2 years am feeling fine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Sayre & Hemphill. adv

BREEZY LETTER RECEIVED FROM DR. JOHNSON

It may be that the Gazette and Republican will not object to a letter from San Francisco. It is a long way from Xenia, and I tell my friends here that I am very sorry for them on that account, but that they must brace up and make the best of a bad situation. They should have located their city nearer the world's center of hospitality, rope and theology. They usually admit that those articles and others that I mention are all very good, but then the climate! "All roads lead to Rome," and all Pacific coast conservations lead to the climate. There is no climate on earth to compare with that of the Pacific coast. So we are informed by all who live on any part of the coast. And of the whole coast San Francisco has without doubt the finest climate. I know this because several citizens have taken me aside and gently but firmly told me so, and they ought to know. And, truth to tell, we have had very pleasant weather since we arrived on May 17th. It is just right from say 8 a. m. to 4 p. m., bright sunshine and fine ocean breeze, then from 4 o'clock on it is chilly. Sometimes the fog comes in from the ocean toward evening. You wear your overcoat, especially if you are from the East, and you sleep under a blanket and a comfort or two even if you are not from the East. They tell us that this bracing coolness and vitalizing vapor (which I have profanely called chilliness and fog) are even more pronounced in July and August. So we are trying to work the power of suggestion and lively expectation, to the end that when the time arrives we may not be chilled and soaked, but braced and vitalized. These vapors are pure aerated, salt baths, and are to be carefully distinguished from the pestilential fogs that rise from eastern rivers and ponds and swamps. There has been no rain for many weeks and none is expected till about November. There is no green except where water is artificially provided, in the parks many old men are constantly at work watering lawns, flowers, shrubs and trees, and the great Golden Gate Park and the numerous small parks are certainly beautiful. Whether they can be kept so fresh till rain comes again I do not know. All unwatered spots are already entirely brown. To one who is used to summer rain and green there is much to be desired in San Francisco at the last of May.

There be compensations however, as for instance fuchsias and geraniums with stocks like those of the largest grapevines, clambering in huge bushes over high fences and in a riot of bloom; as for instance butter on the table never too hard and never too soft; also milk, bought at a creamery Saturday evening, perfectly good Tuesday morning.

William and I are in the First Church Manse, 1513 Fulton street, where a model article of general housekeeping is now on, since we are doing it ourselves. Meantime we live in apprehension of being taken again under vigorous and efficient management on or about June 5, when Mrs. Johnson and Helen are scheduled to arrive. June 4 is set apart for dish-washing.

The Rev. O. P. Bell, whom many in Xenia will remember, is in Y. M. C. A. work in France, and it is his work I am trying to do for the summer.

"Watch Your Feet"

Doctor said,
"Bio-feren had
for her."—

Case 1734—School teacher; Residence—Kentucky; severe operation; left her weak, anemic, nervous; low vitality. Physician recommended Bio-feren. Two weeks' treatment showed remarkable improvement. Doctor reported, "Bio-feren had done wonders for her."

Another case—Pennsylvania, reports: "I have taken about one-half of the Bio-feren pellets and must confess that I feel like new."

A Kentuckian woman says: "I have taken Bio-feren regularly and feel much benefited. I can use my arms much better. However, can not get my hands to my head sufficiently to comb my hair, but I feel that I will soon be able to do that."

You want the vigorous health and ruddy beauty that is dependent on strength, nerves and red blood. Everybody does. Read those reports above, again. You, too, if you are dragged down in health and strength because of overwork, worry, nerves, and similar causes can rebuild your health and strength with Bio-feren. It is not a stimulant. It is a builder—a builder of better health.

Bio-feren contains some of the best ingredients known to the medical world, and is indicated for the treatment of run-down conditions due to overwork, worry, anæmia, melancholia, nervous debility, debility following infectious diseases, convalescence from acute fevers, etc.

There is no secret nor mystery about Bio-feren. Every package shows the elements it contains. Ask your physician about it, or have him write and we will send him complete formula.

And don't forget that Bio-feren is sold only on condition that you will return the empty package and allow us to refund your purchase price if, for any reason, you are not fully satisfied. Please bear that in mind for it is very important.

Bio-feren sells at $1.00 for a large package. Your druggist can supply you or we will send it direct upon receipt of $1.00; six packages for $5.00, should you have any trouble in securing it. The Sentinel Remedy Company, Miamia Temple, Cincinnati, Ohio.
